DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Group II, claims 2-6,8 and 9 in the reply filed on 6/19/06 is acknowledged.

Claim Objections

Claim 5 objected to because of the following informalities: Claim 5, line 5 reads "the substrates to not contact", it appears that this should read, "the substrates do not contact". Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 2 recites the limitation "the barrier lines" in line 5. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 2 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by An et al.

An et al. teaches a method of cutting a flexible glazing structure comprising applying a non-conductive barrier material to a first pair of substrates to be laminated before coating with liquid crystal material, laminating the pair of substrates with liquid crystal material there between and cutting the laminate, (col. 6, lines 36-43, and col. 8, lines 45-47). An et al. also teaches cutting notches in both of a pair of substrates to be laminated, registering the substrates such that the notches do not overlap when the substrates are laminated together, (col. 9, lines 40-46, fig. 17B).

The Examiner notes that the notches do not touch, therefore they do not overlap.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over An et al. in view of Choi et al.

An et al. teaches all the limitations of the claims except for lowering the temperature of the substrates and liquid crystal material to a temperature sufficiently low to increase the viscosity of the liquid crystal material. Choi et al. teaches that when forming a LCD, when the temperature of the liquid crystal is lowered, the viscosity is increased, (col. 2, lines 5-43). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a LCD, made by lowering temperature and therefore having a high viscosity of the liquid crystal, as taught by Choi et al., in the cutting method of An et al., An et al. teaches a method of cutting a LCD, and Choi teaches a LCD, and the method of cutting of An et al. can be performed on various types of LCDs.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 2 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 6,8 and 9 are allowed.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Kohyama et al., Kubota et al. and Okamoto et al. were cited to show other examples of LCDs.
